The School Landscape: Outdoor Learning in Practice at the Samford Valley Steiner School

This event complements the previous presentations and workshop event on outdoor learning. This is an opportunity to see how the Samford Valley Steiner School practices outdoor learning and to explore the buildings and grounds of this school. Set amongst a natural environment the school grounds capture the creative exploration of the child.

The event will be led by Chris Jack, a founding teacher who has been involved in Steiner education for over 25 years. Chris is also the Chair of Steiner Education Australia (SEA), Chair of the GLAM (Governance Leadership and Management) Committee and on the Education Committee for Independent Schools Queensland. Other teaching staff at the school will provide further details of the way the school applies learning in the outdoor environment.

Networking opportunities with refreshments will round off the afternoon.
